

Hasting College president to give Founders' Day talk

Founders' Day will be celebrated Friday morning at the first all-school convocation of the year. William M. French, president of Hastings College, has been named as the keynote speaker for the day.

Classes will be dismissed at 10 a.m. for the convo, which will commemorate the 43rd anniversary of the university's founding.

Convo guests

Honored guests at the morning session will be the regents and past regents of the university. At last report, W. Dean Vogel was scheduled to speak on behalf of the regents and the university. Omaha U's band will also be present.

Dr. French received his AB at New York State Teachers' College and his PhD at Yale University in 1934. During his last two years at Yale he served as a teaching "fellow" in education with the rank of instructor.

President, author

The president of Hastings College since '43, Dr. French is a member of the National Education Association, and headed the Nebraska Association of Church Colleges from '46 to '47. He co-authored "College of the Empire State" and has written several articles on education.

The convocation is open to the public.

Drive, election occupy alumni

With a new membership drive gaining momentum and an equally new roster of officers, you can bet that Omaha University's Alumni Association is getting set for a big year.

Edgar Howe, a 1938 grad, now head of the Agency Department at Mutual Benefit Health and Accident Association was elected alum President at the Thursday night meeting. Newly-elected vice president is Charles Ammons, class of '49.

Thompson re-elected

Re-elected to former posts were: Jessie T. Jones, '20 secretary, and Emmett Dunaway, '49, treasurer.

Dr. William H. Thompson, Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, was re-elected to the board of directors for a three-year term. New board members are Beth Baker, William Fear, Harold Poff, Jr., and Elton Combs.

Meanwhile, John Adams, alumni secretary, while looking to the eventful year ahead, isn't overlooking anyone in his attempts to swell the association membership.

Night students

His office plans to gather students from the School of Adult Education into the fold through the 5000 letters being sent to night school students past and present telling them of their eligibility as alums.

By-laws of the constitution entitle membership to any person who has received credit for courses taken at the university.

Initial Coffee Hour hears UN discussion

It's rapidly becoming a national pastime to gather over a cup of coffee and discuss everything from world problems to the World Series.

That pastime received a boost at the year's first Coffee Hour session yesterday when George Marling led the discussion by giving his impressions of the United Nations in Geneva, Switzerland. Marling's discussion centered on the Economic-Social Council, one of six (UN) councils.

Because of its world-wide influences, he termed it by far the most important as it will figure highly in averting future wars.

The Senior Student Councilman was one of three American students attending. In all, thirteen were chosen from the representative countries of the U.N.

Brothers win scholarships--

Real estate awards go to Lenz seniors; both majors in business

Two surprised OU brothers have won annual real estate scholarships at Omaha U. The announcement was made Saturday.

The two, Norbert and Lawrence Lenz, are both seniors majoring in business administration. Norbert will receive the $100 Nebraska Real Estate scholarship for the current semester. Lawrence receives the Omaha Real Estate award of $50.

Both in Air Force

Both brothers served in the Air Force in World War II, each serving three years and reaching the rank of sergeant. Each came to the university with only six high school credits.

Lawrence made up his high school requirements in the Omaha U Extension and Correspondence Department. Norbert,

Adams set out to make '51 Homecoming top-notch event

Omaha U's alums intend to make Homecoming just that.

Headed by Alumni Secretary Jack Adams the ex-students and Over-all Chairman Roderic Crane, the alums have set up a full schedule for the '51 event.

Plans for Friday, Oct. 19, include meeting the Kansas State players at the depot, parading to the Fontenelle Hotel, and "pep-rallying" in the lobby of the Fontenelle, where the alums have their headquarters.

Saturday's event parade will feature a hot dog luncheon in the Student Center and a victory party Saturday night for alumni in the main ballroom of the Fontenelle.

The Alumni Homecoming Committee, as announced by Adams, includes Harold Poff, Jr., Charles Ammons, Henri-ta Keiser, Joe Baker, Bill Fear, Jack Feirman, Jim Borland and Jim Ross.

The J. C. Alums have announced that several Omaha businessmen will judge the student room displays.

Sellout of optional books proves student interest

Some OU students really have a thirst for knowledge.

As a supplement to a course in the Philosophy Department, the book store stocked optional texts. There were four titles and 195 of the reprints. They were all sold out.

Ben Koenig, bookstore manager, feels that this indicates great interest on the part of the student. It proves that he can buy books because he wants to, and not because he is forced into it.

Deadline for Fulbright requests is Oct. 15

Applications for Fulbright Grant Scholarships are now available in the Dean of Students' office. The applications are for graduate students who wish to apply for a year of study in a foreign country, paid for by the government. All requests for the scholarships are due back in the Dean of Students' office by Oct. 15.

The applications will be reviewed by a campus committee and the promising ones will be sent on to a state committee by Oct. 31.

Linton to hold tryouts for KWOU staff jobs

Any student may try out this afternoon or tomorrow for campus radio positions

If you think you would like working in a radio station, here is your chance to find out. Anyone interested in announcing or continuity writing is urged to try out for the staff of KWOU, campus radio station.

Auditions for the staff will be held this afternoon from 1 to 2, and tomorrow from 11-12:30. If these times are not satisfactory, you may see Bruce Linton, faculty adviser for the station, about another time.

Twice weekly

When the staff is chosen, year of operation on the OU KWOU will begin its first full campus. Linton said that broadcasting will probably begin the latter part of October. The station will be on the air twice weekly, between the hours of 11 and 3.

The station may be heard in the main building, the Student Center and in the parking lot. In order to improve campus audience coverage, individual speakers will be installed in the Student Center.

Most of the programs will stress music. Student Director Ben Butler hopes, however, to have a program of highlights on OU home football games.

"Wired wireless"

KWOU came into existence last spring largely through the ingenuity of two OU engineering students. Stan Davidson and Bob Strutbaker built the transmitter as a project.

The station is called a "wired wireless" station, and transmits its signal at 550 kilocycles. The station staff will include program, engineering and production divisions.

Skits spark pep rally to success

The most successful pep rally in years was held Friday in the auditorium. This opinion was voiced by nearly all of the students who attended the rally.

The rally opened with the pep band playing several fight songs. Master of Ceremonies Don Blocker then set the theme for the rally in quoting from that famous footballer, Jarrin' Jack Jackson: "Hit 'em hard, hit 'em . . . and that's what I call guts football."

New cheers

The new cheerleading squad led the student body in several cheers, and then changed places with the team for a skit on pep. "Football players" Jane Englehardt, Sally Westin, Jean Madden and Gloria Johnson refused to play ball until the spirit in the stands was high enough.

"Cheerleaders"—girl "cheerleaders"—Aksel Schmidt, Dick Lane, Neil Apker, John Potts and Keith Christie led the cheering.

OU-SD game

After Head Coach Lloyd Cardwell had introduced the team, "Sportscaster" "Berkley" Forsythe emceed a second skit. This one portrayed the OU-South Dakota game of Saturday afternoon. "All-Americans" Charlie Simpson, Frank Skrupa, Harlan Peterson, Harold Winslow and Don Fitch played the part of the Sodaks.

Schmidt, Lane, Potts, Apker and Christie won the game for Omaha in the last seconds with a daring pass interception play.

TALES OF SHRDLU

By Berk Forsythe

This week's Tale of Shrdlu comes from Glen Bowker, ace news release writer for the office of information at Omaha U, who claims he unearthed quite a story on the campus this past week.

Bowker alleges he found an old professor under a rock on the south bank of the grounds, and further claims that this same professor has been on the university payroll for years. Following up this lead, a Gateway reporter went to the administration for further information, but was met with a terse "No comment."

"This ain't Washington," screamed the reporter. "I want my news story or else!" This same reporter has just entered his first week of basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

Another fearless Gateway reporter later interviewed the professor himself. The professor swore (certainly an uncommon thing at OU) that he would stand on his constitutional rights.

These rights, however, proved imperiled when the FBI accused the professor of underground activities. The professor denied these charges.

"I'm not going to stick my head in the sand to these accusations," he said, as he climbed back under his rock.

The ego of the American woman is to be inflated in the near future, according to an article in the magazine "People Today."

The article stated that a man has invented an inflatable brassiere that is almost fool-proof. The new equipment involves an air-tight plastic bag with a connecting valve, something like a streamlined Mae West.

It's rumored that a "Learn to Swim" program will be inaugurated with the new invention. Police expect the rate of female drownings to be reduced to virtually nothing, and some beaches have considered rules making the wearing of them mandatory by both male and female swimmers.

Is the new invention tough? The inventor tested it by jumping up and down on one with the full force of his 175 pounds. The invention at the time was lying on the floor.

The latest sport in The Gateway office is killing flies. A team composed of Burt McMillan, Lee Nelson and myself killed no less than 200 during a campaign last Saturday. McMillan is with the Air ROTC.

Free ice cream offer attracts 160 takers

Only 160 students capitalized on the free ice cream offer by the Snack Shack which was published in last Tuesday's issue of The Gateway. This represented about 10 percent of the schools' enrollment.

Coupled with the ice cream give-away program was a contest to name the new frozen custard cone that was being handed out.

Holtz announces betrothal plans

Miss Helen Holtz, student at the University and employee of the alumni office, has announced her engagement to five different Omaha U students.

They are Ernie Flecky, Larry Johnson, Bob Stedman, Bob Darrah and Pee Wee Schultz. Miss Holtz stated that these five have been selected as part of her thesis for an abnormal psychology term paper.

Strictly from the students-- Freshmen women show preference for sophomore men, spinach; Storz

Freshmen girls at the university were greeted with a battery of questions by two fearless Gateway reporters this past week in an effort to correlate certain facts and preferences. The questions were as follows:

1. Do you plan to get a degree?
2. What do you think of the freshmen boys?
3. Do you own a car?
4. If you go to school by bus, do you transfer more than twice?
5. Are you married?
6. Do you like spinach?
7. How many hours are you carrying?
8. Do you prefer Storz or Metz?

Girls like sophomores

Here is how the girls answered the one essay question, What do you think if the freshmen boys?

Jannine Fiala: They've changed since they came to college.

Joan Willey: I haven't seen any.

Joan Nelson: Could be improved.

Joan Krupa: Personally, I go for the sophomores.

Diane Hannum: I've got one.

Sandra Chullino: They're very nice.

Joan Gross: All I've met are very nice.

Jerry Kelley: They're okay.

Ruth Waschinek: The ones I've met are very nice.

Pat King: Pretty good.

Lois Stokes: A couple are very nice. I'll wait and see about the rest of them.

Patricia Propst: I think they're interesting.

Joan Fitzwater: Sophomores are better.

Sharon Erdkamp: They're not very fresh.

Lorrie Lemen: I'd rather have a sophomore.

Carol Roberts: They're okay for freshmen.

Ann Lowby: I prefer at least sophomores.

Also prefer Storz

This survey showed that the main reason for freshmen girls attending OU is the sophomore boys. Furthermore, every girl who preferred sophomores to freshmen also preferred Storz to Metz. Another correlation is made with this phenomena when it was found that girls carrying an average of 15 hours also preferred Storz to Metz, while those who have no preference carry an average of 16 credit hours.

The logical conclusions to be drawn from this are (1) that too many dumb freshmen girls are running around with drunken sophomores, (2) that freshmen girls who prefer freshmen boys have not learned to appreciate good beer, and (2) that therefore, freshmen boys go to college to cultivate their drinking habits by the time they're sophomores.

Spinach excels

Further questioning proved that 12 of the 17 girls interviewed liked spinach, and that those who didn't like spinach expressed general dissatisfaction with the local crop of freshmen boys. This proves that people who dislike spinach like Storz and dislike freshmen boys, a very profound discovery.

None of the freshmen girls were married, and only one owned her own car. (I proposed to her, but she refused.) Eleven of the 17 girls plan to get their degrees, and a few others are shooting for the MRS.

Only one girl has to transfer more than once in coming to school, and this same girl prefers Storz to Metz, which proves absolutely nothing.

Millions of smokers, on and off the campus, have discovered there's only one true test of cigarette mildness.

IT'S THE SENSIBLE TEST... the 30-day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke — on a day-after-day basis. No snap judgments. Once you've tried Camels for 30 days in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), you'll see why...

South Dakota rambles for 27-19 win over OU

An invading South Dakota University football team rolled to a 27 to 19 victory over Omaha in the Indian Stadium, Saturday.

After little better than nine minutes had elapsed in the opening period, Omaha's Aksel Schmidt took a pass from Keith Christie and crossed the SoDak goal to give the Indians an early 6 to 0 lead. The play covered 29 yards. Bugs Redden's conversion attempt failed.

But the lead was short-lived as the favored South Dakota squad took control of the ball on the Omaha 44 and marched to pay dirt in six plays. The touchdown came on the last play of the period. Bob Brende converted and the SoDaks led 7 to 6.

Brende gallops

Midway in the second stanza Brende broke through left tackle behind sensational blocking and sprinted 76 yards to South Dakota's second marker. The conversion attempt failed.

Late in the quarter the Indians retaliated with a brilliant pass play that opened the door to the second Omaha touchdown. With the play originating on the Coyote 24 yard line, Bob Rose flipped a 14-yard aerial that bounced off a defender's finger tips and into the arms of Jerry Tannehill. Tannehill then lateraled to John Wiren who was finally downed on the four.

Wiren scores

Two plays later Wiren plunged for the score, but again the conversion try failed and the halftime score stood at 13 to 12.

Halfway through the third period the SoDaks widened the margin to 20-12 as Brende raced nine yards to the end zone and converted for the point after touchdown.

Coyotes tally

The Coyote power continued in the fourth period as Bob Brende scored again after a sustained 82-yard drive. Brende again converted to make the score 27 to 12.

In the final period the Indians came to life with a series of passes from Christie to Rose and marched 69 yards to end the scoring. Christie gained the tally on an end sweep from two yards out and John Wiren connected on the conversion attempt.

Three team grab tie in OUWI kegle line loop

Chi Omega, Alpha Xi B and Gamma Mu opened the OUWI bowling league with straight game victories to rocket to the top of the standings.

Chi O dropped Alpha Xi 3-0 while Gamma Mu blanked Sigma Kappa. Alpha Xi B took the measure of the Kappa's in three games.

Zeta Tau Alpha and NISA took two out of three from Chi O Owls and Independents respectively to tie for fourth place in the ten-team chase.

Zeta's and NISA won honors in the high team game with 496, while NISA took the high team series with a 1,461 set.

Gorr urges all unaffiliated men to register; AF-ROTC to field teams if enough respond

All men who are unaffiliated and who are interested in participating in intramural athletics should be signing up now.

Those interested and who have not signed up should do so today and tomorrow in the second floor hall. This was announced Friday by Intramural Director Ernie Gorr.

A new team will enter the intramural warfare this year. It is a team composed of ROTC students. The Air Force may field more than one squad if enough boys respond to the call. 'murals vary Intramural sports this semester will consist of touch football, bowling, basketball and volleyball. All men should sign up now so Director Gorr can get the football and bowling program under way.

All unaffiliateds will be placed on the team representing the section of town in which they live. The Cherokees are formed by non-Omaha residents; Pawnees from the northwest part of town.

Wrestle hopes at OU fade as only 12 sign

Omaha U hopes for a wrestling team this year were dim Friday, as Athletic Director Tom Brock prepared his report to the Athletic Committee.

Wrestling was dropped from the OU curriculum this year as a result of a cut in the budget. However, President Milo Bail said that if enough boys showed interest in the mat sport that the university would have a wrestling team.

Interviews prospects

President Bail referred the problem to Brock who immediately went into action. He made a survey of the boys interested in the sport and interviewed prospects.

Brock explained that he must have a bare minimum of 25 boys signing up for the program. Then would follow the task of rounding out a schedule and securing a coach. But, so far only 12 boys have responded to Brock's appeal.

Need men

Brock also said that he could not possibly field a team unless he could field a man in every weight division and have enough competition in each division to get the best man in each position.

of Omaha and the Otes from the southwest. The dividing lines are Dodge Street and Thirtieth.

Washburn edges Emporia: Doane wins, Maroons hit

Emporia (Kans.) State, Omaha University's Homecoming foe, dropped a close 14-13 decision to Washburn University. Washburn is the Indians' opponent in Topeka Friday night.

Two other Indian opponents split weekend contests. Doane College walloped Chadron Teachers 46-7 while Morningside dropped a thriller to North Dakota U 21-16. The Morningside squad invades University Stadium Saturday, Nov. 3 and the Indians travel to Doane for an Oct. 12 date.

Three lettermen, ex-Papoose vault Indian grid fortunes at tackle slot

With plenty of weight and experience, Omaha University's tackle unit is one of the strongest positions on the Indian roster.

Lettermen Dick Lane, Howard Bryam and Ernie Lee combine with ex-Papoose star Sam Gulizia to give any foe on the OU roster plenty of trouble.

Both Bryam and Lane are seniors while Lee and Gulizia are juniors.

Three newcomers

The only lament of the coaching staff is that they could use two or three more tackles in case of injuries to the vets. However, this situation has been halted with the addition of Steve Marinkovitch, Douglas Cain, and Harlan Peterson. All three boys were late in reporting for drills and are not yet in tip-top shape.

Playing his third year of varsity ball, the value of Lane was clearly shown when he was chosen team captain for the 1951 season.

Weighing in at 220 pounds, Lane plays on both the offense and defense platoons, and really anchors down the right side of the line. For the past three years the name of Dick Lane has spelled danger to all opposing lineman and backs.

Byram injured

Versatile is the word for Byram who not only shines on the gridiron but also on the wrestling mat. This is Howard's second campaign on the varsity, and although a pinched nerve in his elbow held him back in the Wesleyan game, he is expected to really make amends when the season rolls along.

A native of Lincoln, Lee is beginning his second season on the OU varsity. His specialty is defense, but he was called in for double duty in the Wesleyan game due to Byram's elbow. This is the same Ernie Lee who played third base on the Indian baseball nine.

Having spent most of last year on the Papooses, Gulizia looms as a rugged performer along the defensive line in '51. A graduate of Tech High, "Big Sam" uses his 205 pounds of beef to good advantage in giving many an opponent a Saturday headache.

OUWI signs 130 members in two days of campaign

OUWI signed close to 130 members in the first two days of their membership drive last week, announced Mel Myers, president. The girls are striving for a membership of 200.

The get-acquainted picnic for all members is Wednesday afternoon at 4:30 at Elmwood Park. Each member is to bring his own lunch and .10 for pop. Anyone interested in attending and who has not made her reservation may do so before noon today in the P.E. Hut.

Various OUWI members will travel to Lincoln this Friday and Saturday for the WAA Convention and Playday. The official delegates will represent OUWI at the meetings and at the banquet Friday evening. All OUWI members are invited down for the Playday Saturday. The .50 fee includes the lunch.

J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

SHEEDY was a big walrus-flower. "All I ever get is the cold shoulder," he blubbered. So his roommate said: "Tusk, tusk, you old soak—try a new wrinkle on that messy hair: Wildroot Cream-Oil! Non-Alcoholic. Contains soothing Lanolin. Freeze your hair from annoying dryness and loose, ugly dandruff. Helps you pass the Finger-Nail Test!" Now Sheedy's really in the swim! Just sealed his engagement to a pretty young flapper—and he's about to whisker off to an ivory-covered cottage. So water you waiting fur?
